Make-up Days Scheduled for Instructional Days Lost Due to Inclement Weather

The following inclement weather make-up day schedule has been announced by the Norman Public Schools. By Oklahoma State Statutes, public school districts are responsible for providing 175 instructional days for students. Superintendent Dr. Joseph Siano stated, "As you are well aware, the recent winter storm has caused challenges with our school calendar. The district must make adjustments in the instructional calendar to meet the state requirement."

Three days will be made up with the following adjustments in the current school calendar:

- Day 1 – Monday, February 15 – previously scheduled holiday for Presidents' Day
- Day 2 – Friday, February 26 - previously scheduled Parent/Teacher Conference Day – Conferences will be restructured.
- Day 3 – Friday, May 28 – previously scheduled snow make-up day

The make-up schedule for the fourth day has yet to be determined. The current calendar designates the week of June 1 as alternative days. The district is investigating recent changes to state law that provide for more flexibility in making up instructional days.

Dr. Siano explained, "We know this is disruptive, and the district will work to accommodate parent, student, and staff conflicts that may be caused by this calendar adjustment."
